UNITED STATES FORCES IN THE PHILIPPINES
HEADQUARTERS TENTH MILITARY DISTRICT
Office of the Commanding Officer

28 September, 1948

Subject: Lieut. Col. Luis P. Morgan, Inf.,
- Mutinous Action.
To : The Commander-in-Chief, SWPA.

1. Following is a brief factual history of the case of Lieut. Col. Luis P. Morgan.

2. It was reported to me - but I have not been able to verify - that the late Brig. Gen. G.O. Fort ordered the then Capt. Luis P. Morgan to report with his Constabulary detachment from Kolanbugan to Davao to aid in repulsing the Japanese invasion. Instead of following orders, Capt. Morgan reported to Davao personally without his detachment. Upon his own initiative, he decided that the situation was so bad that he returned to Kolanbugan, and on his own instructions the Findlay Miller Lumber Company was totally destroyed. Later observation in August, 1942, indicated to me that this drastic action was both needless and unnecessary. The mill could have been disabled by removal of irreplaceable spare parts, and thus render it inoperative and useless to the enemy. However, is protected at least by verbal orders from Gen. Fort to follow a scorched-earth policy.

3. During June and July, 1942, Captain Morgan by drastic action curtailed an incipient Moro raids which may well have been a serious danger to the Christian population in the north coastal area of Lanao. It has been charged that Capt. Morgan's actions were more drastic than necessary, but no attempt has been made to investigate these charges, as it would be impossible to adduce unbiased testimony at this time. During this time, the inception of a guerrilla movement was discussed, but until 18 September, 1942, it did not extend beyond the organization of a volunteer guard group in the municipality of Kolanbugan, and the arming of some retreating soldiers to guard against the Moros, as well as to resist any Japanese landings in the area. No overt action was made against the Japanese at this time.

4. Captain William Tate, who has my sincere admiration for sheer courage, served with the Japanese as Chief of Policy of Mamungan until he was able to convince them that he should be given arms. Prior to his appointment as Chief of Police, he had served as an interpreter and liaison officer between the Japanese agent of the Military Administration and the provincial and municipal officials of Misamis Occidental. The Japanese, Kardmas by name, did not understand English, but spoke Ilocos Visayan. At the meetings in the various municipalities, Kardmas would advise the people to come back to town bringing their families, and reestablish normal life. Capt. Tate, his interpreter, told the opposite advising the people to keep their children, particularly girls out of sight; not to return to town, and not to cooperate with the Japanese. It was due to this act that Misamis Occidental never cooperated fully with the Japanese.

5. After returning to Lanao, Capt. Tate successfully convinced the Japanese of his integrity and obtained 70 Enfield rifles. Upon receipt of these rifles, he advised the people of Mamungan that he intended to desert the Japanese for good, and take to the forests. As he expected the Japanese to retaliate, he advised the civilians to leave their homes within the next three days. He did this in an area overrun by fifth columnists and pro-Jap spies, and after the last civilian had left Mamungan, he and his men deserted the Japanese.

6. A few days later, Tate called on me, and we had a long discussion on the possibilities of guerrilla action, as the Japanese has alienated all Filipinos by brutal treatment. I advised Tate to find Capt. Morgan and verify the report that Morgan was ready for guerrilla action. My thought in this was to play the underground organization before actually attacking the enemy, and unless the organization was widely dispersed, we would be wiped out in the first retaliatory raid. Tate left on or about 15 August, 1942, for conference with Morgan. The then Capt. Hedges and I followed on the 23rd of August. On the 10th of September word was received from agents in Misamis Occidental that the Japanese had ordered all fire arms in the province to be brought to the various municipal buildings for deposit and registration.

6. Capt. Tate suggested that he raid Misamis Occidental to capture these arms before they were removed from the province by the enemy. At this time, Misamis Occidental was lightly garrisoned; I had made two visits to the area without seeing any Japanese. On 16 September, Tate and 40 men disarmed the police force in Misamis, killing the only Japanese officer there, and seized the guns stored in the municipal building. Being greeted as a liberator, Tate received suggestions from the jubilant populace that the whole province be freed from the enemy. This was done. In a steady advance to the north, five more Japanese were killed and 8 others escaped.

7. On 18 September, Captain Morgan, apparently sensing the applause that would greet the liberators, rushed across Panguil Bay to Misamis Occidental to take over the leadership of the invading forces. During the next fifteen days, the entire province was liberated, and a local militia or volunteer guards was organized. On 1 October, these two officers, Morgan and Tate, returned to my quarters in Lanao, and requested that I take over command of the movement, since as Morgan stated, "PC officers who are senior to me will not obey my orders. In order to have a unified force, it is necessary to have an American officer to command." In reply, I told Morgan that I would assume command, but that he must remember that once that command was assumed, I would be the Commanding Officer, and that I would not be a stooge, or a figure head for him, or any group of Constabulary officers.

8. Agreement was reached, and on 2 October, my first trip as Commanding Officer was started from Tangub, Misamis Occidental, and covered the entire province, including Dipolog on northern Zamboanga. On 6 October, the Japanese made a punitive attempt to land troops at Misamis, but were defeated with more than 40 Japanese killed. No further attempt was made except two minor raids in which the enemy was unable to land.

9. On 26 June, 1943, the enemy undertook an all-out invasion of Misamis Occidental. More than 1500 troops were used in simultaneous landings at Dipolog, Aloran, Tudela, and at Tukuran, Zamboanga.

10. From the beginning of this movement, Lieut. Col. Morgan was interested in doing as he pleased rather than in establishing a strong organization which will be able to function successfully in the face of an expected retaliation. Since his assistance was of no advantage, he was sent on an inspection patrol of the northern provinces of Mindanao. This inspection trip extended nearly 5 months, and was completed on 23 June. During this trip, Lieut. Col. Morgan had a long conference with Major Jesus A. Villamor, formerly Commanding Officer of the Seventh Military District. While in Jimenez enroute to my Headquarters, Morgan and Major Edwin D. Andrews, PAC, an American citizen, although like Morgan, an American mestizo, had a long discussion on the conduct of the Tenth Military District. Unfortunately, both of these officers are violently anti-American in their attitude. Undercover agents overheard a great deal of the conversation, and proof is available to verify these statements. Upon arrival at my Headquarters on 24 June, Morgan handed me copies of orders which he had signed as "Colonel, GSC." He was reprimanded and advised that his orders will not be recognized. Apparently this rebuke precipitated his intention of attempting to wrest the command from my hands.

11. As stated previously, the Japanese attacked on 26 June, and I evacuated the Headquarters and radio equipment to the Bonifacio area where we have an rear CP already established to meet such an emergency. Although Morgan with nearly all the armed men of the HQ and Service Co., was only across Panguil Bay, he made no attempt to communicate with me, or to send assistance. A message was sent to Lieut. Col. Hedges, Commanding Officer, 108th Division, province of Lanao, requesting information in his area. Instead of replying to the message, he crossed the bay with a small but well-armed force of Christians and Maranaos. After conference, it was decided to move the net control station to Lanao where it is believed that it can be defended. While enroute to the present location of the radio station, I was informed that Lieut. Col. Morgan has issued a proclamation on 4 July accusing me and all Americans of being cowards, and to had failed to defend Misamis Occidental.

12. On 27 July, I received a curt statement (Exhibit "D") from Lieut. Col. Morgan advising me that he had resigned as Chief of Staff. The resignation was accepted (Exhibit "G"), but still leaving the way open for him to revise his attitude. On 4 August, the first overt act was made when he attempted to replace the division commander of the 108th Division by fomenting trouble with two leading Maranao datu. Fortunately, these datu were more intelligent than expected, and refused to join in the movement. Morgan thereupon lost considerable confidence in his ability to take over the command of the Tenth Military District.

13. On 10 and 11 August, Morgan reported for conference at my Headquarters, in which his very foolish and minor complaints were answered, and he was definitely informed that he would not take over the command of the Tenth Military District, since he could not control the various units. On 16 August, he realized his weakness and issued a statement (Exhibit "L") rescinding all orders issued by him, and assuming full responsibility for the senseless destruction of houses in Tangub and vicinity. Pressure was brought to bear upon the few foolish young officers who had been deluded by Morgan's promises, and the movement was suppressed without blood shed.

14. It is realized that such mutinous action should have been immediately stamped out rather than by patiently undermining the officers' prestige. However, it is hoped the conditions under which we are laboring are appreciated, and the fact that we are not strong enough to fight among ourselves and against the well-armed enemy at the same time. By calling upon the several hundred loyal Maranaos, I could have wiped out the entire mutinous group of approximately one hundred men and officers. I could have started the killing, but I desisted from doing so, for once a Maranao is aroused to a fighting pitch, he will kill everything that walks in his path. I did not issue the order to wipe out the mutineers, or it would have meant the killing of all Christians in the municipality of Kelambugan.

15. The desired result was obtained when the mutiny collapsed, and Morgan reported to my Headquarters in response to my orders. Since that date, 25 August, he has retired to his quarters, and in general ceased to interfere with the organization. The Tenth Military District has weathered its most severe storm, and emerged a better and stronger organization.

16. True copies of all orders issued by Lieut. Col. Morgan are submitted for such action as deemed necessary. No charge sheet has been filed, as it is felt that these orders will be sufficient basis for charges, but such will be filed if desired.

Subject: Resignation, Acceptance of.
To : Lieut. Col. L. P. Morgan, Inf.

1. Your letter subject, resignation, was received this morning, and necessary orders will be issued in accordance with the wishes therein expressed. The only statement that could be contained in such orders, since no reasons or explanation were given in your request for relief, is that you are placed on unassigned status.

2. It is impossible for us to conceive of your reason for making this request. You must realize that we are part and parcel of the Army of the United States. You became a part of the Army of the United States and subject to the Articles of War when you took your oath of office upon acceptance of your promotion. In view of that acceptance, you placed yourself under command of this HQ. Now you request that you be relieved as Chief of Staff. This has been done, but it is not within my power to relieve you as an officer of the Army. Therefore, as one of the ranking officers of the Tenth Military District, you should have a particular assignment. What that assignment is to be should be decided by conference. You are therefore requested to report to this HQ for a conference, since it is my intention to place you in an assignment which will be more congenial than you apparently found your previous assignment. You definitely cannot remain a free lance, and maintain any command function in a Military District which is organized along military lines.

3. The most astonishing angle in your resignation is that you are apparently throwing overboard the chance of a lifetime. As C of S of the MD you were in position to take over the command thereof as soon as the American officers are relieved. This will undoubtedly take place upon the signing of the treaty of peace. There is absolutely no question that the Philippine Government will be 100 per cent Filipinized. You were in a logical place to succeed as as CO of the 10th MD, and be in position to administer the most important district in the Philippines. Yet you have resigned that opportunity, why I do not know. In other words, you are turning your back on the chance to be the most outstanding Filipino officer in the island of Mindanao, and probably in the entire archipelago.

4. In closing, allow me to call to your attention the fact that upon acceptance of your resignation as Chief of Staff, you thereby forfeit all command functions in the Tenth Military District until you are given another assignment. It is hoped that you will be able to report here on or about Monday, 8 August, 1945, for the desired conference, as I expect to leave shortly thereafter.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS

IN THE FIELD
4 AUGUST '43

SUBJECT: Letter dated 30 July '43, Anser of
TO THE DISTRICT COMMANDER, 10th ID

1. If you are in contact with Gen. MacArthur please inform him that I resigned as your Chief of staff because I and my people do not like to disgrace ourselves by going with a sissy, partial, discriminating and running headquarters. Hence, we organized the Mindanao-Sulu Force. The behavior of our officers and men in Misamis Occidental during the invasion is a disgrace to the United States and Philippine peoples for which the leaders at the time are to be blamed.

2. Attached is a copy of my proclamation which I hope you will transmit to the Commanding General, Southwest Pacific Area, word for word so that they may know what is transpiring here. By this, means everybody can have justice and fair play.

3. If conference is desired, Kolambugan, Lanao will be the meeting place. Date: August 10, 1943. Time: 10:00 AM. Major Busran Kalao and Capt. Joseph Sanguila will attend this conference. Please advise them accordingly.

DEAR MAJOR ANGELES LIMENA

I intend to relieve the present Division Commander of the 108th Division for obvious reasons. The position of a Division Commander should be entrusted to an officer who possesses the qualities of a professional soldier.

I know you are the most logical officer to assume command of this Division. I offer you this. If this offer suits your conveniences answer me immediately by phone or letter.

Sincerely,

(PERSONAL)

Lieut-Col. W. W. FERTIG:

I and my people are very much disappointed in what transpired in our organization. When I organized the forces in September last year I have only the welfare of the United States and the Philippines at heart. I did not have the least intention of making myself a big shot. Being part American and loyal to America I did not like to put the Americans down. So against the protest of my fellow officers I requested you, a US Army officer, to head our organization and placed myself as your chief of staff. By this arrangement, I thought, I could bring about the cooperation of the Americans and Philippines in this fight against our common enemy.

Everything went well at first. I went on my trip to organize and coordinate all guerrilla forces under our headquarters. I even sent my instructions to Col. Hugh A. Straughn in Luzon, thus carrying your name in practically all parts of the Philippines. I even made plans to make you the Major General of our guerrilla forces upon the request of the various guerrilla leaders and the people. I defended you against harsh criticism from people who did not like you. I explained to Major Meider, AC. (who is antagonistic to you) and to Major Villamor why you are heading our forces.

But during my long absence you practised nepotism and sectionalism openly. You and your fellow Americans have the best care, best accommodation, best clothes, best shoes and best positions. Some of your American officers behave arrogantly toward Filipino officers and men. Tires and other supplies were taken from my house to accommodate your American friends. When you received your appointment as district commander for the Tenth Military District you sidetracked me by appointing Lt-Col Robert V. Bowler as your second in command. (see HQ#116). When some Tommy guns arrived from Australia I was entirely neglected though an American civilian, a non-combatant, was given one.

OVER

I realized that my position as chief of staff is treated with contempt. I made recommendations for commissions etc which in many cases were not approved but recommendations made by your American friends are given more weight. You gave me a rotten car while American officers inferior in rank than I, have nicer and better cars. I did not have my share of clothing and shoes though American enlisted men have their shares.

There is one honorable way out. Resign as chief of staff.

I blame, not you, but your advisers for most of these faults. Your Filipino advisers are injecting politics in the Army while your American advisers are utterly ignorant of local conditions and have done you more harm than good.

I am expecting for you here in Kalambuyan for conference as per letter dated 4 August '48.

Dear General,

To close once and for all the misunderstanding between you and Lt. Col. Morgan, I am enclosing herewith the desired statements as required in your communication of 12 August 43, par. 4, (a) and (b), which contain the CONCESSION of Lt-Col. Morgan, with the hope that my earnest request with respect to our conference yesterday at about 1:30 P.M. will find its way as expected, par. 3, same request.

It is probably a surprise for the General to know that the effect of the little misunderstanding between the two outstanding leaders of the GUERRILLA operations in Mindanao and Sulu to the civilian population and the subordinate officers and enlisted men has been very great, that several prayers have been said to save the remaining Philippine Commonwealth from INTERNAL DESTRUCTION.

The news that the General has atlast been so kind and generous, having felt the urgent necessity for UNITE at this crucial moment and the preservation of the USFIP organization now and always, has been a blessing to all.

Sincerely,

(SGD.) BUSBAN KALAW

In view of the difficulty of communication between different provinces due to the presence of enemy and to expedite payments of cash advances, ration allowances and other sundry expenses, you are authorized to print local emergency circulating notes like the ones printed here. Your local emergency circulating board can be appointed by you. Careful attention should be exercised by the board and you to avoid anomaly of funds which you will be held responsible for. You should act on this matter in case the amount of ₱50,000.00 requested for and allotted to that regiment could not be had.

My Dear Colonel:

I received your letter dated 5 March '43. I understood your objection regarding the action of Lieut. Imao, I received also some communications and reports from Lieut. Imao regarding his work. From what I understand his work is also commendable. I have appointed him Commanding Officer of all Sulu Forces temporarily pending knowledge of any ranking officer in Sulu.

I have no objection of your assuming command of the Sulu Forces, you being the most ranking officer now in Sulu province. You inform Lieut. Imao of my action on the matter. The work of Lieut. Imao however, should be given credit, hence he should be promoted to the rank of 1st Lieutenant.

All promotions and appointments should be ante-dated to give credit to each respective man.
