1. I have carefully examined the conclusions and recommendations of the Inspector General, attached. It is unfortunate that the Inspector General did not call upon me before submitting his paper or better still before making his investigation, in order that I could have oriented him as to factual considerations, plans and policies, having a distinct bearing upon his conclusions, but on which information was unavailable to him at the Camp itself as, for reasons of security, I have not taken the Camp Commander or any other officer thereof into my confidence in reference present and future Philippine projects and the C-in-C's underlying policies controlling the same.

2. I don't think you need be concerned over the problem of morale at TAERAGALRA. Morale, of course, is a relative term and the Inspector General put his finger on the basic adverse influence on morale at that camp when he concluded (sub para f, para 5) that "the men, with few exceptions, are intense in their desire to be sent on a mission. They realize the hazard, but are sincere in their desires, their chief complaint being that they have not been sent on mission." That they are restive under the multitudinous fatigue details incident to new camp construction, coupled with the delay in commitment to action, is a reaction common to all soldiers of all races and is a healthy, rather than an unhealthy, sign.

3. The camp has the usual number of misfits and some problem has resulted from the men sent here from the United States being preponderantly from among those I rejected in my survey of the personnel of the 1st and 2nd Filipino Regiments, rather than the contrary. However, these problems are not of a serious nature and are being worked out in a manner to avoid detriment to the service.

4. I have remained as close to these men as my time will permit and, from my knowledge of Filipino psychology, I find them reasonably happy and making satisfactory progress in the training or other work assigned. That they are fervent in their desire for early commitment to Philippine operations is, as aforesaid, confirmed by the Inspector General himself.

5. Concerning Capt. PICKERING, while I will re-examine his relationship to the command in the light of the specific charges made by the Inspector General, I am inclined to believe that his case can best be handled through guidance, or, if need be, disciplinary or reclassification action. His relief from the command would solve nothing. That a subordinate officer, regardless of temperament, can demoralize an entire command is inconceivable. He may be misplaced in his duty assignment, may require correction and guidance or even disciplinary action, but decision and action on the premises is a responsibility of command, that should not be evaded by transfer of the problem to another as recommended by the Inspector General.

6. A Manila youngster, whose parents are confined in SANTO TOMAS UNIVERSITY, Capt. PICKERING has much personal interest in the Philippine reoccupation -- an intense desire for assignment to Philippine service. While he has many faults, primarily based upon youth and inexperience, he nevertheless has some good qualities -- sufficiently strong, I believe, to render him susceptible to guidance and correction by a patient and discerning commander.

7. I suggest that no action be taken on the recommendations of the Inspector General at this time. Neither Captain PICKERING, nor any other officer, will be selected to lead a party on a forward mission who is not believed fully qualified to perform the task and no man will be placed under the leadership of another who is not wholeheartedly willing to subordinate himself to that leadership. At the same time, the camp is not to be conducted as a kindergarden and any man, who is susceptible to serious distraction or demoralization by another, will be subjected to closest scrutiny to determine his suitability himself for forward service, where distracting and demoralizing influences will be at their height.

15 December 1943.

1. This provisional unit is under the operational control of GHQ operating, as I understand it, under instructions from the head of the Philippine Regional Section of the AIB.

2. Decision as to action to be taken on recommendations contained in paragraphs 7, 9, 10 and 11 of basic check sheet from the IG, USAFFE, appear to be GHQ matters.

3. The matter of special T/O and T/E for this provisional unit has been carefully considered. Grades and ratings now held by enlisted men are, in general, higher than could reasonably be expected in any T/T for a unit of this size which would meet War Department approval. When and if a suitable allotment of personnel, grades and ratings for theater overhead is received from the WD, this unit will be included and specific grades sub-allotted to it. It is recommended that no action to obtain approval of a special T/O by the WD be made at this time. WD action on similar requests (as for A.T.I.S.) have been returned stating that such personnel should be included in the theater overhead allotment.

4. Though not specifically covered in the IG check sheet, it is recommended that experienced officers of GHQ exercise closer supervision of the unit in question.

Subject: 5217th Reconnaissance Bn (Prov), APO 923.

FROM: IG

TO: D C/S

13 December 1945.

1. During an inspection of the 5217th Reconnaissance Bn (Prov) APO 923, 6-7 December 1945, it was apparent to the Inspector General that the morale of the organization is low. Inquiry, observation, and information gained during the complaint hour, held in compliance with par 4e(1) AR 20-5 indicate very definite reasons for this condition.
2. The organization is composed of men who are supposed to have volunteered for a specific purpose and who are primarily of Filipino birth or extraction, drawn from the 1st and 2nd Philippine Regiments now training in the United States.
3. Hq & Hq & Service Co of the 5218th Reconnaissance Co are composed of men of Filipino extraction or birth. The 978th Signal Service Co (attached) are men other than Filipino. The organization was activated on authority contained in GO 58, Hq USAFFE, 8 October 1943, classified as "Secret". It is carried on the station list as USAFFE troops, but is in fact directly responsible to the Allied Intelligence Bureau. Colonel Courtney Whitney, Chief, Philippine Regional Section, AIB, is the direct contact of the Commanding Officer of the battalion, Major Lewis Brown, Cavalry.
4. The mission of the organization is understood to be the training and preparation of men to accomplish a special mission, secret in character, hazardous of performance, requiring special training, equipment, and personnel specifically qualified, who have volunteered their services for this duty.
5. The causes of the unfavorable morale situation are as follows:
  - a. (1) The present Plans and Training Officer, Captain Abner K. Pickering O-1283130, Inf, in direct charge of training of the 5218th Reconnaissance Co has lost the confidence of commissioned and enlisted personnel through the use of abusive and foul language, humiliation of individual personnel, belittling of efforts, threats of consequences, lack of tolerance, and an arrogant attitude. These matters were discussed with Major Brown, Commanding Officer of the battalion, who advised he is aware of the conditions and has attempted to correct them. Finding his efforts to correct the actions of the officer produced no improvement, he has, on two occasions, recommended to Colonel Whitney that Capt Pickering be relieved from duty with the battalion due to his demoralizing effect upon his command, but the recommendations were not considered favorably.
  - (2) It is evident from conversation with <sup>and</sup> the observation of Capt Pickering that he lacks the experience, leadership, and psychology required of an officer in the capacity in which he is serving. He is a man 25 years of age, called to active duty 1 May 1942, having received his commission as a second lieutenant from Officer Candidate School, Ft Benning, Georgia.
  - (3) A rumor is prevalent that Capt Pickering is alerted to lead the next mission to the islands. The source of this rumor is not known, but in view of it certain men under his training requested that they be permitted to withdraw if assigned to a mission led by him. They emphasized their desire to accompany any other officer of the command.

b. The organization has not been provided with a T/O or T/E, causing a situation which precludes the promotion of commissioned and enlisted personnel. Under the provisions of GO 58, the activation order, it is stated that a special T/O and T/E will be provided. Because of this situation the organization has been almost wholly dependent upon the AIB for its supplies, equipment, and property, and is attached to the 978th Signal Service Co (attached) for rations, a condition which lacks stability and permanency of organization. The difficulties in the development of a T/O and T/E are readily understandable, but it does not detract from the fact that these men have left organizations where promotion has been possible, to do a job of a hazardous nature for which recognition might normally be expected. Instead, they find themselves in a position where hope of future advancement is lacking.

c. Included in a recent group of men assigned to the battalion from the 1st and 2nd Philippine Regiments for training were 54 men who had not volunteered for the assignment. The understanding here is that the men selected for training will be volunteers. As a result, those who do not volunteer after their arrival are used on work details about the camp. This creates a condition which segregates the men into volunteer and non-volunteer classes, and has the effect in the Filipino mind of causing men to "lose face". Consequently, men volunteer for the mission who otherwise may not consider it. This does not appear to be in the best interests of the accomplishment of the mission.

d. Instances have occurred recently where the leaders of missions have been selected who have not had training with the men they take with them. The most recent instance is the last mission. The officer selected as leader appeared at the camp and, with the assistance of the Commanding Officer and S-3 of the battalion, selected the men who accompanied him. His contact with the men prior to departure did not exceed several days. This lack of contact between men and leader creates a situation conducive to misunderstanding and lack of confidence. Due to the nature of the mission it is considered that implicit confidence of men in their leaders, and intimate knowledge of the abilities of the various men included in the group are vital to the success of the mission.

e. Some individuals who returned from missions have been assigned to the battalion or permitted to address the members of the battalion. Their actions and statements have been detrimental to the morale of the Filipinos in that they have stressed their own individual accomplishments, both military and personal, in a manner of bravado. Their statements have been resented by the Filipinos of the command. It is believed that these individuals could be of inestimable value if required to contain their remarks within proper bounds.

f. The men, with few exceptions, are intense in their desire to be sent on a mission. They realize the hazard, but are sincere in their desires, their chief complaint being that they have not been sent on a mission. Inquiry disclosed that, when they leave America, they are given information regarding the mission and how the training and administration will be handled, but upon arrival here find a very different situation. For example, each man is led to believe that he will become a part of a closely integrated team which will train and operate as such under a leader who will accompany them.

6. Organization, statement of mission, stability of training procedures, and means and method of accomplishment, are lacking in the battalion. The Commanding Officer is a capable and able officer, but it is apparent that he has been handicapped through interference, lack of complete authority, and the temporary basis upon which the battalion is now organized and attempting to function.

It is recommended that:

7. Capt Abner K. Pickering O-1283130, Inf, be immediately relieved from duty with the 5217th Reconnaissance Bn (Prov).

8. Suitable special Tables of Organization and Equipment be provided the battalion at the earliest possible time.

9. A policy be established and followed that all men assigned to the battalion are available for duty with a mission upon orders.

10. To establish mutual confidence and teamwork, leaders of missions be given a minimum training period with the men selected to accompany them.

11. Personnel who have returned from missions, and who are permitted to associate with or address the men in training, be restricted to discussion of subjects considered by the Commanding Officer to be appropriate to training and development of morale.
