2. CINCPAC Z-26150, 19 Nov to MA resulted from an inquiry recd fr CCS in C/N 1, Subj: International Surface Mails, 10 Nov 50 (T/J 3244) and requested MA permission to auth carriage of international surface mails to Korea by ISMS. In this msg was stated the assumption that para 4h (CAT 8) AR 55-167 would govern permission. CAT 8 reads as fols:

"Coml cargo, as distinct from military controlled or sponsored cargo, may be transported in accordance with current instructions of the Department, as may be modified or amended to conform to the fiscal policies governing ISMS."

3. Check with AG Radio and Cable reveals that MA msg cited in para 1 of instant I/R was recd as stated, i.e., referring to service mails, and that CINCPAC cited in para 2 was dispatched as drafted in 'S, i.e., referring to surface mails.

4. MA msg 33725 DTG 210025Z has been discussed with Mr Duggan of CGA, originator of C/N on which CINCPAC request to MA was based. Mr Duggan concurs in opinion that CAT 7 AR 55-167 would not cover international surface mail.

5. Routed thru G-4 for approval prior to dispatch.

6. a. Action on T/J 5242 (MA msg WCL 33725) suspended to 10 January pending MA reply.

b. Action on T/J 3244 (CCS C/N 1 to TO 10 Nov requesting information on trans of surface mail to Korea) which was suspended to 25 Nov pending MA reply to CINCPAC Z-26150, and to 7 Dec on receipt of a MA interim reply dated 25 Nov, is further suspended to 10 January pending MA reply to instant msg.

Under provisions of JCS 98134, 7 December the following comment by General Willoughby, the theater G-2 on a Tribune Editorial of 5 December is filed with the request that you relay to the Herald Tribune, viz:

"I have just seen a fragmentary account of the Tuesday editorial of the Herald Tribune brought here through the wires of the United Press. The sharp criticism of the Intelligence Services of this command is without the slightest degree of validity.

"As MacArthur's Chief of Intelligence, throughout the war years in the Southwest Pacific as well as the United Nations venture into Korea, I stand ready to immediately assume direct personal and official responsibility for 'confusion of facts and intelligence' as suggested by this editorial. I am not prepared, however, to acquiesce silently in superficial deductions or unwarranted conclusions.

"The United Nations forces operated under directives to liquidate the North Korean communist forces and turn over a pacified country to free elections. This meant fighting and the occupation of geographical spaces. These forces have done that successfully and by mid-October were within fifty miles of the Chinese International boundary, the Yalu River. The United Nations forces employed frontally in the Eighth Army sector totalled approximately four American and four South Korean Divisions and smaller British, French and Turkish contingents. The tired troops reached their positions after months of continuous and entirely creditable fighting. The maneuver of Inchon combined with the break-through of the Eighth Army netted over 100,000 Prisoners of War. This obviously successful United Nations campaign was planned for and predicated on the ensemble of the North Korean opposition: it was not planned for war against Communist China.

"Information on the entry of Red China into the Korean war involved both political and military intelligence—one in the field of international diplomacy, the other on battle field conditions.

"Political intelligence on Chinese Communist 'intentions' and information from behind the Iron Curtain has been practically non-existent—at least little or none ever reached this headquarters. Military information on Chinese Communist intentions and order of battle was negligible until developed through our attack on twenty-four November.

"Detection of enemy movements on the border area of North Korea necessitated reliance upon air reconnaissance which was prohibited North of the Yalu and found itself virtually impotent in view of the enemy's restricting of his movements to the hours of darkness and capacity for concealment rendered possible by the mountainous terrain marking the approaches from the Yalu River to the battle front. Knowledge of the enemy's order of battle and the ability to estimate his intentions was dependent upon piecing together and evaluating information gained through interrogations of prisoners of war.

[WAR ZX DA]

W98430 refer

CinC

"The initial collision with Chinese Communist troops took place under condition of our general pursuit of the remnant North Korean Army in direction of the Yalu River. At that time leading regiments only of allegedly Chinese volunteer units were encountered under a cover designation of the 53d, 54th and 55th Armies. The potential of an overnight increase of these forces, at a distance of only fifty miles from their base, was not ignored by the Eighth Army. The entry of Chinese Forces, though undetermined as to full extent, was enough of an international factor to adjust military dispositions accordingly.

"There was only one way to find out and it is a soldier's way under the offensive mission of the United Nations forces, and that was to attack. This attack promptly disclosed a tremendous build-up of Chinese Communist forces in the general area of eight or more armies, or 24 divisions. If the Eighth Army had remained stationary in positions around Anju, it would have faced even greater numerical odds. With the enemy close to home territory, in an artificial sanctuary free from air attack and air observation, it was no trick to move considerable masses forward, to a front only fifty miles away. Such movements were made at night on foot and in motor.

"Up to the launching of that attack the command was confronted with the necessity for decision upon one of three courses of action, to wit: (1) to attack, (2) to remain in position, or (3) to withdraw. There was neither political nor military intelligence to indicate a withdrawal. Had it remained in position while as events have subsequently disclosed, the Chinese Communists were building up for an overpowering attack, destruction of the Eighth Army would have been inevitable. Decision was therefore made to attack with all elements abreast under close coordinated control. This attack forced the enemy to reveal--undoubtedly prematurely under his plan--both his strength and his intentions. It provided the evidence to show, through prisoner of war identifications and interrogations, that a sizeable part of the Chinese Continental Army was committed against our forces in Korea.

"Your seeming question of the accuracy of intelligence estimates of enemy strength, is to a certain extent academic; the transfer of Lin Piao's Fourth Field Army aggregating 500,000 men alone, from South China, from the Hainan and offshore Formosan areas was trailed from one railroad terminal to the next. Its arrival in Manchuria and successive deployment along the Yalu River was also known. The only 'estimate' if that vague term could be applied was speculation in Tokyo as well as in London and Washington (and presumably in the editorial chambers of the Herald Tribune?) on if and when the Chinese would intervene. The world held its breath, confronted with that sinister potential. The chancelleries of the world attempted by every diplomatic means to induce the Chinese Communist war-lords to stay out. One can hardly blame the United Nations Field Commander for the Chinese coming in en masse at their own time and place. That monumental decision was beyond the local military intelligence surveillance; it lay behind the Iron Curtain and in the secret councils of Peiping. There was a brief twilight zone of expectation, eagerly shared by the entire world, that the fiction of Chinese 'volunteers' was real, that the already identified Chinese forces were only a small 'token gesture' to a defeated neighbor, though there was no inherent historical or ethnic obligation to North Korea. It now seems apparent that Communist aid to North Korea began in 1949 and that the decision to intervene in strength was made incident to our amphibious operations on September 15th.

"Apart from this, the circumstances involved call for an understanding that behind her undeclared war, Communist China is undoubtedly prepared to further commit any needed segment of her enormous potential for war.

"These facts are sent to you in the public interests and it is hoped that you will publish them. It is time for distinguished newspapers such as yours to appeal to calmness and reason, avoiding hysterical accusations or deductions. In this as always you can render a valuable public service."

Z-28599 For CINFO Urad WCL 29900 not understood in view of fact that your WCL 27207 requested entry of Director Tezloff and Asst Director Farrell to Japan to look into possibilities of making commercial film. Their entry accepted as commercial entrants, which has been this Hqs policy and which has been accepted by DA. No ref was made by DA in requesting their acceptance that previous deal of great interest had been made in Washington. Furthermore, no ref was made that it had been decided to move commercial filming pers into Japan and Korea without regard to already over-taxed facilities for carrying out mil opns. In previous applications for commercial films, scripts and objectives were usually submitted unless director or studio representatives were sent out for preliminary survey. It is not considered that Tezloff and Farrell should have any status other than commercial entrant. They may submit the requirements that will be necessary to produce film they desire and this hqs will then act in view of exsisting conditions in this theater.

Reference your VCL 29170 of 30 Nov it was realized that action proposed mymsg Z 24918 of 10 Nov would require Congressional action and coordination on a governmental level. SR 755-60-5 is a DA regulation and does not cover disposal of United Nations scrap which is defined as that scrap generated by all military forces operating in Korea. As an interim measure CINCFE is disposing of scrap under the authority of SR 755-60-5 dated 1 Feb 1950, SR 755-60-20 dated 29 August 1950, and a general authority to provide such civilian type supplies in Korea to prevent disease, starvation, and unrest, and for minimum construction and reconstruction to further military operations of the United Nations Command. These regulations are inadequate, however, as they do not cover the long term problem of disposal of United Nations scrap. Request that action be initiated now to deal with long term problem of disposal of scrap in Korea. Donation of usable scrap to the UN relief agency responsible for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea will assist in solving the scrap disposal problem and also save the United Nations money on procuring and transporting to Korea, materials which would otherwise be required if scrap is not made available. Since United Nations relief is partially supported by the United States, this action will result in a savings to the United States taxpayers as well as the taxpayers of other United Nations involved. Ref to para 25, SR 755-60-20, 29 Aug 50 believed to be in error as referenced SR has only four numbered paragraphs.

SUBJECT: Scrap Having Zero Fair Value

1. CINCFE msg Z 24918 of 10 Nov 50 submitted a scrap disposal plan to the DA for approval. This plan recommended that UN scrap generated in Korea which was usable for relief and rehabilitation, be donated to the UN Relief Agency responsible for operating in Korea. DA msg WCL 29170 of 30 Nov stated that transfer to UNKRA would require Congressional action and quoted (incorrectly) existing regulations for disposal of scrap.
2. Instant msg to DA states that CINCFE was aware that Congressional action was necessary, and points out that US taxpayers will benefit from such action.
3. Action is an attempt to establish a new DA policy but is within FECOM policy.
4. Coordination not required.

MEMO FOR RECORD: The 64th Engr Base Topographic Battalion by letter to the Engineer, GHQ, FEC, 410, subj: Procurement of Technical Equipment, dated 15 Nov 50 and informal routing slip, subj: Procurement of Technical Equipment, dated 22 Nov 50, requested 4 new Webendorfer Big Chief Model 29, 22" x 29" presses. The above references pointed out that the press capacity of the 64th Engr Base Topographic Battalion was not sufficient to meet the reproduction demands for maps and other data required for a tactical operation such as Korea. As a result it was necessary to utilize Japanese facilities which are less desirable due to possible security leaks and increased production costs.

The 4 additional presses will allow for increased map reproduction within the 64th Engr Base Topographic Battalion, use of standardized functions such as lay out, stripping, paper cutting, film usage, and in turn simplify the procurement and storage of necessary topo supplies.

This message requests that 4 each, presses, Webendorfer Big Chief 29's be added to Operational Project Army-FEC-GEN-1-51-OP for the 95th Engineer Base Reproduction Company to allow for increasing the press capacity of the 64th Engineer Base Topographic Battalion, and eventually to replace the LTE presses presently in use at the 64th Engineer Base Topographic Battalion which will in turn allow for the elimination of certain duplicating functions in operation, maintenance and supply.
