MEMO FOR RECORD:

1. The TC-58 (Daily Port Activity Report) required by DA msg WCL 37336, 8 Aug 50, and implemented by CINCFE msg ZX 13339, 12 Aug 50, is, in its present form, primarily a report of cargo handling operations. It is used, however, not only to check on cargo operations but to record vessel movements as well.
2. Having been designed primarily to account for cargo handling, the report makes no provision for reporting actual time of departure of vessels. Estimated times of departure are shown, but no provision is made for recording the departure of a vessel which is diverted from the port prior to commencement of loading or discharging.
3. To make the report more useful to the Movt Cont Div as a source of information concerning vessel movements, the instant message requests DA authority to add a Part 4 to the report, listing all vessels departing during the reported period, with ATD and next port of call.
4. Concurrence: Movts Cont Div (Lt Col Hunt).
5. Routed thru Comptroller for concurrence.
Action initiated, and suspended until 6 Dec 50 on Trans Jo pending DA reply.

Urmsg 171616Z. Statements of large scale pilferage up to one-third of stocks of winter clothing are without factual basis. Some pilferage has occurred, with evidence of culprits being South Koreans and, in some instances, Americans. However, it is emphasized that total pilferage is minor in volume and consequence and is of a degree inevitably experienced in all military operations. There is no evidence that pilferage occurring in Korea is at any greater rate than that experienced in World War II. Winter clothing was procured in adequate volume and was received in Japan and South Korea sufficiently early to meet all requirements despite these minor losses, which have been exaggerated to gargantuan proportions, apparently through irresponsible sources of information. It is reiterated that losses were so minor as to have no bearing whatever on the temporary delay in delivery of winter clothing to troops in North Korean areas. This temporary delay, as reported in ourmsgs CX 69130 and Z 25574, resulted entirely from the difficult supply situation emanating from the spectacularly swift advance of UN troops in pursuit of the disintegrating enemy. The supply difficulties thus engendered were applicable to all classes of supply, not to winter clothing alone. Disrupted highway and rail traffic, due to destroyed bridges and primitive road system, plus scarcity of operable airfields, reduced the flow of all supplies to front line troops to irreducible minimum, which had to be pro-rated as to food, clothing, ammunition, fuel, etc. This situation improving daily as LOC's improve. Above conditions have been restated to emphasize that initial shortage of winter clothing at front was due in no degree whatever to pilferage and/or black marketing. In summation, urmsg has been read over phone to logistics commanders in Korea who emphatically deny any such losses as alleged in subject article and who further have no knowledge of any such investigation as that reported to have occurred on 1 Oct 50. These logistics officers took opportunity to wholeheartedly endorse all above statements, which were outlined in phone conversation. Most strongly urge that every legitimate means be utilized to refute the entire contents of subject news release and place an accurate presentation of the factual situation before American public in order that unwarranted and severe criticism may be avoided and damage already wrought may be alleviated all possible.

MEMORANDUM FOR RECORD:

Subject: Looting of Winter Clothing

1. DA msg 171616Z quoted an article by a Mr. John I. O'Donnell in Washington Times Herald, New York newspaper which stated in brief that Americans fighting in Korea were short on winter clothing because of large scale organized looting by South Korean racketeers from warehouses at Pusan.

2. The G-4, 2d Logistical Command, Colonel Crabill was contacted via telephone and the DA msg was quoted to him. Col Crabill vehemently denied the accusations as quoted in the DA msg. He stated there had been no large losses of winter clothing from Pusan warehouses. Colonel Crabill admitted the possibility that a few items of winter clothing may have found their way into unauthorized hands, however, no more than normal under field-combat conditions.

3. G-4, Eighth Army (Col Stebbins) also advised there was no foundation for the accusations quoted in the DA msg. Col Stebbins stated that an INS new story refuting the O'Donnell item had already been released by the Eighth Army PIO.

4. The foregoing is considered an adequate basis on which to reply to the DA msg. CINCFE msgs Z 25574 and CX 69130 are referenced since these two msgs contain a complete explanation for the delay in supplying winter clothing to combat troops.

5. Necessary action is to advise DA of the facts in this matter and to deny the accusations of the O'Donnell story in the Washington Times Herald.

6. Approved by Chief of Staff, 18 Nov 50.

7. Action completed on G-4 JN 17302.

For CINFO. Reurmsg W 96469 the following released: "United Nations troops of X Corps now fighting in the most advanced northern area of Korea, both Army and Marine, have been fully equipped with suitable cold weather clothing for current conditions. The same type of winter clothing was stock piled early in Korea in sufficient quantity to equip all UN units of the Eighth Army.

It should be noted that the Eighth Army has recently been in an active pursuit of disintegrating NK forces from South Korea to an area near the Manchurian border. As in all pursuits, the troops outran their supply lines with resulting difficulty in providing food, ammunition, and fuel, as well as clothing. In spite of this situation the Eighth Army has been and is issuing to advance units winter clothing as rapidly as the logistic situation permits and as the season requires.

Additional heavier garments will be made available when needed for those troops requiring them dependent on temperatures and location in Korea.

The fighting soldier should not be issued extra clothing which cannot be worn at the time as this would impose an unacceptable burden. Cold weather items therefore are issued only as needed." For CINFO. Reurmsg W 96469 the following released: "United Nations troops of X Corps now fighting in the most advanced northern area of Korea, both Army and Marine, have been fully equipped with suitable cold weather clothing for current conditions. The same type of winter clothing was stock piled early in Korea in sufficient quantity to equip all UN units of the Eighth Army.

It should be noted that the Eighth Army has recently been in an active pursuit of disintegrating NK forces from South Korea to an area near the Manchurian border. As in all pursuits, the troops outran their supply lines with resulting difficulty in providing food, ammunition, and fuel, as well as clothing. In spite of this situation the Eighth Army has been and is issuing to advance units winter clothing as rapidly as the logistic situation permits and as the season requires.

Additional heavier garments will be made available when needed for those troops requiring them dependent on temperatures and location in Korea.

All units of the United Nations Command have been enjoined throughout the campaign faithfully to observe the rules of land warfare and as far as is known such injunction has been most fully observed. Consequently any occurrence of incidents referred to in the quoted editorial are under the civil processes and upon the sole responsibility of the Republic of Korea, a sovereign state over which the United Nations forces exercise no slightest authority. No orders have been issued by this headquarters implying restrictions upon any area of news coverage or the reporting of events as they occur other than those normally proscribed by the self-censorship in force. Any detailed information which may be desired on the civil government of the Republic of Korea probably could be obtained from the Korean Embassy in Washington.

Ref SR 755-60-5. Subj is Scrap Materiel in Korea. Scope of ref SR does not cover present situation. Anticipate clean-up in Korea will generate considerable scrap materiel including ferrous and non-ferrous metals. Largest percentage of materiel was originally US Army stocks. Other sources will be Navy, AF, and foreign units with UN Forces. If UN Forces so desire they should be allowed to recover and retain, or dispose of their own scrap; however, excepting naval vessels and aircraft, segregation and separate disposal actions not considered feasible. For best interest all concerned, and to expedite clean-up with least costs in time and personnel, recommend all scrap generated in Korea usable for civilian relief and rehabilitation be transferred to ECA without reimbursement or donated to UNKRA. Residual scrap to be sold or disposed of on site, or returned to Japan for sale in accordance with existing disposition instructions. This should not be interpreted to prohibit the recovery of precious metals or strategic and critical materials under existing regulations, or the use of scrap for military purposes when such requirements exist.

MEMO FOR RECORD:

1. Reference msg requests consideration of the feasibility of downgrading future TC-58 (Daily Port Activity) reports to restricted.
2. These reports, submitted by ports in Japan, Okinawa and Korea, are presently classified secret, in accordance with the basic DA directive, which states that classification is to be determined by CINCFE security needs.
3. The TC-58 report lists, among other things, the total amount of cargo and personnel loaded on or discharged from each vessel, and the ETD and next port of call. This information can be readily interpreted into terms of tactical and strategic planning and could easily compromise the security of highly classified operations.
4. Navy Movement Reporting Procedures; set forth in Wartime Pacific Routing Instructions, Aug 1950, require certain sailing wires on each vessel. The Navy "presail" radio contains info which can be accumulated from the cargo and personnel figures reported in the TC-58 reports, as well as the destination. The Navy reports, however, are classified as secret or confidential whenever the vessel carries troops or carries cargo directly supporting combat or where the destination is itself classified. As a consequence, changing the classification of TC-58 reports at this time would compromise the security deemed necessary by the Navy in executing its mission of protecting ships at sea.

5. In view of the considerations given in paragraphs 3 and 4 above, it is not deemed feasible to reduce the classification of TC-58 reports at this time, and instant msg so advises DA.

For the Adjutant General (AAGPS). Reference recent messages calling for investigation and report of alleged delay in delivery mail several units. This headquarters alert to and cognizant of importance prompt and expeditious handling mail and every effort being made expedite and improve mail handling. In spite shortage postal personnel, officers this headquarters continually in field checking on mail handling procedures. No delay in forwarding mail from Japan to Korea. Whatever delay does exist is due transportation difficulties in field between division and lower echelons. Road conditions, frequent movement of units and acute shortage personnel cause some unavoidable delays. To date all investigations of complaints received from the Department of the Army indicate no unusual delay. Complaints such as one that Eighth Cavalry had not received mail for two months are so far-fetched they hardly warrant consideration. Experience has proven that most cases delay or nondelivery of individual mail not fault of procedures but due to frequent changes in status and station and inability of mail to catch up. Also individual's failure in keeping correspondents advised of change of address and similar reasons. Personnel available this headquarters not sufficient to send officer from here to conduct investigation in each individual complaint which consequently must be accomplished by personnel in field where shortage is just as acute. In order to conserve time of personnel and issue prompt reply to complainant suggest that, except in cases of such nature as obviously to warrant special investigation, reply substantially as follows be sent by The Adjutant General to complainant. "CINCFC conscious of importance of prompt and efficient delivery of mail to personnel in field. This matter receiving personal attention of all concerned at every echelon. Officers from GHQ continually in field checking on procedures and extending every effort to assure expeditious and efficient delivery of mail to each addressee. All mail transported to Korea by special plane to places as far forward as possible. MEMO FOR RECORD:

1. The designator "FLIN" was assigned to Wonsan, Korea by D. confidential msg W94197, 15 Oct 50.
2. It appears to be the intent of the Di msg ACL 22593 to down-grade the classification of this designator to unclassified, especially since the msg itself is unclassified. However, the msg is vague and could possibly be read as substituting the designator "CLEAR" for the designator "FLIN." This is particularly true for JLCOM and Light Army as these two commands are using five-letter designators such as "APPLE", for local shipments. Accordingly, it is deemed advisable to request verification of CINCPAC interpretation of the msg and then to send a more explicit msg to the major commands.
3. Suspends action on Di msg ACL 22593, 27 Oct 50, until 13 Nov 50, pending reply from D.
