Dear

Reference is made to your claim for benefits under the Missing Persons Act on services rendered the War Department.

The information which you have submitted concerning your employment by the United States Government prior to the Japanese occupation of the Philippines has been fully considered. Evidence on file in this headquarters shows that Therefore you have no status under the Missing Persons Act as a former civil service employee on duty with the War Department and are not entitled to the benefits thereof. This determination is no reflection upon your loyalty to the United States Government. It means only that you are not eligible for benefits under the Missing Persons Act.

Your case is considered closed and further correspondence regarding this matter will serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
