'S AFFIDAVIT

Subscribed and sworn to before me by the undersigned authority on this 11th day of July, 1937.
by Wm. H. [unclear]
Prothonotary

because, in both cases the Court had no jurisdiction to impose such penalties, and the person may be released on ~~habeas corpus~~ habeas corpus. (Collis vs. Warden of Illinois, 18 F. R. 373; U. S. vs. Palmer, 155 U. S. 45). If the penalty imposed by the court is less than the minimum, the sentence is not void but only erroneous. (State v. Perkins, 143 Iowa 53; 21 L. R. A. N. S. 351; ex parte Shaw, 7 Ohio St. 51).

JUDGMENT IN CASE THERE ARE TWO OR MORE DEFENDANTS.—It is evident that although there are several defendants jointly charged and tried, only one judgment should be rendered. But if they are separately tried, although the practice of entering one sentence does not prevail in the United States, our Supreme Court has held that the practice of rendering a single judgment is convenient, and saves much time and labor, and as it could in no way prejudice the rights of a defendant, there is no reason why it should not be approved. However, in such case the findings of fact and conclusions of law as to each one of the defendants, should be based upon the evidence submitted upon the separate trial of each of them, and should be set out in such a way that upon appeal by one of them the findings as to one can be reviewed independently from those that concern the other.

The practice of entering one sentence against several defendants thus jointly charged and separately tried is not that which prevails in the United States v. Fernandez (9 Phil. 269), and in the recent case of United States v. Reynolds.

It appears clearly that the sentence as to each defendant was based upon the evidence submitted upon the separate trial of his case. Every right intended to be protected, and every purpose sought to be effected by the privilege of a separate trial were effectually preserved. No right accrues to a defendant after the decision has been made which can be prejudicially affected by the fact that another defendant is included in that sentence. The right of appeal to have for a new trial, and to appeal and have his appeal considered upon the record made in his case is preserved unimpaired, and in its entirety. The practice is convenient, and saves much time and labor, and as it can in no way prejudice the rights of a defendant, there is no reason why it should not be approved. (U. S. vs. Lin Bunker, 14 F. R. 373).

JUDGMENT FOR TWO OR MORE OFFENSES.—Just as in a complaint or information not more than one offense may be charged, except in cases of allied or consecutive offenses punishable with only one penalty, so a single judgment can not be rendered in two or more criminal actions although against the same defendant or defendants unless both or all of the cases have been consolidated or tried jointly with the consent of the defendant. But in such case the findings of fact and law in each case must be set out separately.

If the defendant had been erroneously charged with two or more offenses in a single complaint, and the defendant fails to object to it in time, he is deemed to have waived the objection a judgment may be rendered convicting the defendant of each and every one of the

because, in both cases the Court had no jurisdiction to impose such penalties, and the person may be released on ~~XXXXXXXX~~ habeas corpus. (Calix vs. Warden of Bilibid, 19 P. R. 373; U. S. vs. Faiden, 238 U. S. 46). If the penalty imposed by the court is less than the maximum, the sentence is not void but only erroneous. (State v. Perkins, 143 Iowa 58; 21 L. R. A.-N. S. 931; ex parte Shaw, 7 Ohio St. 81).

JUDGMENT IN CASE THERE ARE TWO OR MORE DEFENDANTS.—It is evident that although there are several defendants jointly charged and tried, only one judgment should be rendered. But if they are separately tried, although the practice of entering one sentence does not prevail in the United States, our Supreme Court has held that the practice of rendering a single judgment is convenient, and saves much time and labor, and as it could in no way prejudice the rights of a defendant, there is no reason why it should not be approved. However, in such case the findings of fact and conclusions of law as to each one of the defendants, should be based upon the evidence submitted upon the separate trial of each of them, and should be set out in such a way that upon appeal by one of them the findings as to one can be reviewed independently from those that concern the others.

The practice of entering one sentence against several defendants thus jointly charged and separately tried is not that which prevails in the United States. (See Fernandez 19 Phil. 660.)

punishment to be assessed before sentencing him. While there is no law regarding it, yet in every case under the plea of guilty where the penalty may be death it is advisable for the court to call witnesses for the purpose of establishing the guilt and the degree of culpability of the defendant. This, however, must be left to the discretion of the trial court. Nevertheless, if the court shall deem it necessary and advisable to examine witnesses in any case where the defendant pleads guilty, he should comply in the taking of said testimony with said section 32 of General Orders No. 83. (U. S. v. Talbano, 6 F. R. 542, 543).

By a plea of guilty, the defendant waives any defects of the complaint or information to which he could have objected, by demurrer or otherwise, except the want of jurisdiction, and that the facts set forth therein do not constitute a public offense, or the law defining it as a crime and prescribing a penalty therefore is unconstitutional and therefore null and void.

Where an indictment charged defendant with "feloniously" inflicting a wound less than mayhem, and omitted the statutory definition of the offense, it was held that, since the indictment charged no offense against the law, none was confessed by the plea of guilty. State v. Watson, 41 La. Ann. 598, 7 S. 125. (2) So an appeal from a conviction of a plea of guilty cannot call into question the facts charged, nor the regularity and correctness of the proceedings, but it brings up for review merely the question whether the facts charged and admitted by the plea constitute an offense under the laws and constitution. State v. Barron, 124 N. C. 535, 18 SE 498. (3) Where the information charged that accused was a common prostitute on the streets not giving a satisfactory account of herself and that she was thereby a vagrant but omitted to charge that was asked to give an account of her presence on the streets, a plea of guilty to the information goes no further than the matter charged, and a conviction cannot be supported. Rex v. Pepper, 19 Man. 209, 15 CanCrCas 324. (16 C. J. 403, 404).

PLEA OF NOT GUILTY.— The plea of not guilty is, not only a denial that the defendant actually did the acts alleged in the complaint or information, but also a denial that the defendant guilty of the crime charged, or that the facts averred therein constitute a public offense. The plea of not guilty imposes upon the prosecution the burden of proving the accused guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Under such plea the defendant is entitled to show any excuse or justification, as well as that the prosecution is barred by the statute of limitation.

WITHDRAWAL OF A PLEA OF GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY.— The defendant may, at any time before the judgment, withdraw his plea of not guilty and interpose that of guilty, vice versa, that is, substitute the plea of not guilty that of guilty. But it rests in the discretion of the court to allow him to change his plea.

The Obiter Statement of Justice Treat in the case of U. S. v. Gomez, 34 F. R. 74 to the effect that "it is well settled in this jurisdiction that the defendant in a criminal case, although the charge be a felony, has a right to withdraw his plea of guilty or not guilty and to interpose another ever after the trial has commenced." is in support thereof the case of U. S. v. Sakay, 5 F. R. 200, is incorrect, syllabus in the last mentioned case, because it has been repeatedly held, not only in that case of Sakay, the owner's name is essential. But of course if his name cannot be ascertained, it may be alleged that it is unknown.

From the fact that the name of the injured person may in case of necessity, be alleged as unknown, it should not be inferred that the naming of such person, when known, is of no importance. Where the name of the injured party is necessary as matter of essential description of the crime charged, the complaint must invest such person with individuality by either naming him or alleging that his name is unknown. (Wharton, Criminal Pleading and Practice, 25th ed. secs. 111, 112). It is elementary that in crimes against property, ownership must be alleged as matter essential to the proper description of the offense.

To constitute larceny, robbery, embezzlement, obtaining money by false pretenses, malicious mischief, etc. the property obtained must be that of another and indictments for such offenses must name the owner, and a variance in this respect between the indictment and the proof will be fatal. It is also necessary in order to identify the offense. (U. S. vs. Lahoylahoy and Madanlog, 38 P.R. 333, 334).

VARIANCE BETWEEN THE CRIME CHARGED IN THE BODY OF A COMPLAINT OR INFORMATION AND THE PROOF.— There are three (3) cases of variance between the crime charged in the body of the complaint or information, and the crime proven during the trial to wit: (a) where the crime proved is less than and is necessarily included in the crime charged in the complaint or information; (b) where the crime proved is more serious than the crime charged, and the latter is necessarily included in the former, and (c) where the crime proven does not include nor is included in the crime charged.

~~XXXXXXXXXX that XXXX offense charged XXXX necessarily included XXXX necessarily included XXXX XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~

It is said that an offense charged in a complaint or information is necessarily included in or necessarily includes another where all the essential facts constituting one of them are part of the essential facts or ingredients of the other, in such a way that the latter can not be committed without committing the former. Thus the crime of homicide is necessarily included in murder, because the essential ingredients of the crime of homicide are part of those which constitute the crime of murder, and murder can not be committed without committing homicide; and a consummated necessarily includes frustrated and attempted offense. (art. 29, Gen. Order No. 58; U. S. vs. Macalintal, 2 P. R. 471).

First.— Where the crime proven is less serious, and is necessarily included in the criminal act charged in the complaint or information, the variance is not material, and the defendant may be convicted of the crime proven, because the accused who has been informed of the crime charged must have also been necessarily informed of the crime proven, for the latter is included in the former. So, if a defendant is charged with the crime of frustrated homicide, and the evidence shows that he has only committed the crime of physical injuries, he may be convicted of the latter; and a defendant charged with illegal detention may be convicted of guilty of any offense or a frustrated or attempted offense, the latter of which is necessarily included in the charge in the complaint or information. If both the offense are not identical or the same, the former prosecution will not be a bar to the second. Accordingly, if the accused has been previously prosecuted and tried for the crime of homicide and convicted, or acquitted, and the case has otherwise been terminated or dismissed after all the requisites for jeopardy have existed, he cannot be thereafter prosecuted for murder, because the evidence required to sustain a conviction of the latter crime would have been sufficient to support a conviction for homicide in the previous case.

A conviction or acquittal upon one complaint is no bar to a subsequent conviction and sentence upon another complaint, unless the evidence required to support the conviction upon one of such complaints would have been sufficient to warrant a conviction upon the other. The test as to former jeopardy is not whether he has been put in jeopardy for the same offense. (Morey v. Commonwealth, 108 Mass., 433, U.S. v. Chan Cho-Chay, 5 P. S. 385; U.S. v. Elmister, 5 P. S. 380; same case, 370, 237 U. S. v. Garveros, 10 P. S. 384, same case, 220 U. S. 338; U. S. v. ... 11 P. S. 198; Garter v. McClunghy, 138, U. S. 365, 395; People v. Hanrahan, 75 Mich. 611, 622; The State v. Botkin, 71 Iowa, 37; 60 American State Reports, 763, 32 N. W. Reporter, 785; Ex Parte Hong Shen, 93 Cal. 661; City of St. Louis v. Scheer, 235 Mo., 721; In re George Hoffman, 155 Cal. 114, State of Louisiana vs. Lebatut, 39 La. Ann. 513). (U. S. v. Ching Po, 23 P. S. 562).

COMPELLARIES OR THE RULE: - As compellaries of the above rule as to identity of offenses within the meaning of the law on Jeopardy, a previous prosecution will be a bar to a subsequent prosecution in the following cases:

(a) PROSECUTION FOR GREATER OFFENSE. - Where a person has been prosecuted and tried for a greater offense, such prosecution will be a bar to another for a lesser offense, necessarily included as a part of the greater such as this is charged or described in the former indictment, for the defendant in such case has already been in jeopardy or danger of being convicted of the lesser offense in the former prosecution, because a defendant may as already stated be convicted, not only of the offense expressly charged, but also any offense, or of any frustrated or attempted offense, the commission of which is necessarily included in the charge in the information or complaint. This person who has been prosecuted and tried for homicide or stabbing and killing another, can not subsequently be tried on a charge of physical injuries, or frustrated or attempted homicide of the same person or victim.

(b) PROSECUTION FOR LESSEER OFFENSE. - The same rule applies, conversely, that is where a defendant has been previously prosecuted and tried for a lesser offense, which forms a necessary part or is an essential ingredient of a higher offense, he can not be thereafter prosecuted for the latter offense. The reason is that if the facts constituting the higher offense had been

Article

In case of misdemeanor the defendant may plead in person or by attorney, in as much as the law provides that the defendant may appear by counsel at the arraignment.

PLEA OF GUILTY.—The plea of guilty is a formal admission of guilt made by the defendant of having committed the crime as charged in the complaint or information and being guilty thereof. The mere admission of the truth of the essential facts averred in the complaint or information shall not be considered as a plea of guilty if the defendant alleges some excuse or justification. The plea of guilty may be made voluntarily, and not induced by fear, misrepresentation, persuasion, promise, ignorance and inadvertence. In order to satisfy itself thereof, the court should see that the accused is properly advised as to the nature of his acts and its consequences, especially in capital offenses, that the defendant may not fully understand the nature of the charge, and the consequence of his plea.

The effect of a plea of guilty is to relieve the prosecution of the burden to prove, beyond reasonable doubt, the essential facts duly alleged in the complaint or information, and to authorize the rendition of judgment and imposition upon the accused of the penalty provided by law for the crime charged. However, in case of capital offenses, it would be advisable for the court to hear evidence as to the aggravation and mitigation of the crime, and also for the purpose of determining the degree of the offense, and the punishment that should be inflicted upon the defendant.

It is a principle established by this court that a plea of guilty is an admission of all of the material facts alleged in the information. (U. S. v. Look Chew, 13 P. R. 593.) In the case of Crow v. State (6 Texas, 234) it was held that a plea of guilty to an indictment amounting to nothing more than an acknowledgment of the facts charged, and in the case of Myers v. State (156 Ind. 398), it was decided that a plea of guilty entered by one accused of a crime is a confession of the charge. Moreover it is a wellknown rule of pleading that material matters properly pleaded or alleged which are not denied stand admitted.
(31 Cyc. 306; Drysdale v. Look, 119 Ala., 282.) (U. S. v.
Barba, 27 P. R. 231, 238).

The question arises, Can this court affirm a sentence rendered by an inferior court upon a complaint and plea of guilty unsupported by the testimony of witnesses?
Can the Courts of First Instance sentence defendants in criminal causes upon the plea of guilty without further proof of the guilt of the defendants? Section 81 of General Orders 23,88, provides for the procedure in the trial of a cause where the defendant pleads not guilty. The procedure for the trial of criminal causes makes no specific provision for the trial of a cause when the defendant pleads guilty. We are of the opinion and so hold that the Courts of First Instance may sentence defendants in criminal causes who plead guilty to the offense charged in the complaint, without the necessity of taking testimony.
However, in all cases, and especially in cases where punishment to be inflicted is severe, the court should be sure that the defendant fully understands the nature of the charges preferred against him and the character of the

WHO MUST RENDER JUDGMENT.- The Judge who tries the case or heard the evidence, is the one who should decide the case or render judgment, but in case of death, resignation, or transfer to another district or position before the termination of the trial, or after the trial but before judgment, his successor may either continue the trial or render the judgment, or try the case again, or de novo as he desires (U. S. vs. Abreu, 30 P. R. 402), because a judge who has resigned or has been transferred to another district or position, ceases to have jurisdiction over the case he has tried (U. S. vs. Solar, 6 P. R. 3214).

TIME WITHIN WHICH TO RENDER JUDGMENT.- Although there is no law fixing or limiting the period of time within which judgment should be rendered, and the Court may, on cause shown, or for its own convenience, and in the interest of justice, postpone the rendition of judgment to a future time, criminal cases should be decided or judgment thereon rendered as soon as possible, because defendants are entitled to a speedy trial.

There is a law which, indirectly, require judges to decide or render judgment on pending cases, and that is Act No. 1552, which provides as follows:

Justices of the peace and judges of the Courts of First Instance, of the Court of Land Registration, and of municipal courts shall certify on their applications for the leave prescribed in title thirty-nine hereof, and upon salary vouchers presented by them for payment, and upon all pay rolls upon which their salaries are paid, that all special proceedings, applications, petitions, demurrers, motions, and all civil and criminal cases which have been under submission for decision or determination for a period of ninety days or more have been determined and decided on or before the date of making the certificate, and no leave shall be granted and no salary shall be paid without such certificate.

In cases any special proceeding, application, petition, demurrer, motion, civil or criminal case, is resubmitted upon the voluntary application or consent in writing of all the parties to the case, or proceeding, and not otherwise, the ninety days herein prescribed within which a decision should be made shall begin to run from the date of such resubmission. (Sec. 1, Act No. 1552).

PROMULGATION OF JUDGMENT.- The promulgation of judgment is the reading thereof to the defendant in open court and in the presence of the judge as well as of the accused in case of felony (Sec. 41, General Order No. 58). In case of slight felonies or misdemeanors, the personal presence of the defendant may be dispensed with, and the judgment may be promulgated in the presence of a representative or attorney for the accused. And in case the judge has written out the judgment outside of the province in which the case is pending and sent it by registered mail to the clerk, in accordance with Section 14 of Act No. 827, the presence of the judge in the promulgation of the judgment by the clerk of Court is not necessary. (U. S. vs. Baluyot, 5 P. R. 129).

AMENDMENT OR MODIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS.- It is a general rule of law that all sentence, decree, and other orders of the Courts of First Instance may be set aside, altered, amended or modified by the same court before the judgment, order, or decree, has become final, or appeal therefrom has been perfected, because after final judgment or appeal, the court loses jurisdiction over the case. A judgment or sentence
