1. The teacher reads the passage to the class. After the teacher has read the passage to the class, the pupils are called on to read the whole passage. Before the pupils are called on to read the whole passage, it is short, or the teacher reads it to the children. After the thought of the selection has been made clear, the pupils give a brief summary of the thought of the passage. Then they give a brief summary of the thought of the passage. The pupils discuss the answers they have found to the questions. The pupils read the poem silently so that the answer may be given to the questions.
