Part III - TELL WHO IS SPEAKING. Sometimes you can tell what a person is like by what he says. Write the person speaking each numbered speech below on your paper after reading this paragraph:

"Once a lawyer, a doctor, a farmer, an architect, a forester, a banker, and a poet were traveling on the same train. They began to talk together."

1. Those trees should be taken off that pasture. There are too many there. The grass can't grow for the cattle.
2. Don't speak of cutting down those trees. They prevent your fields from being flooded.
3. That farmhouse is built too low. Its walls must be damp all the time.
4. "Far from daylight, away from day." So say the weary women at work there.
5. The owner should be prosecuted for building such a trap for human beings.
6. That farmer does not seem to know that a loan from my company will help him place the large farm under cultivation.
7. The people are huddled together. That is bound to cause epidemics. What an ignorance!
8. Is it any wonder so many criminals and cases come from our great cities?
9. But the windows had to be made so. You don't see the problems that the builder has to solve.
10. Saving a few centavos each day may help anyone build such an imposing factory building. Look there in the distance!

- e. Make health popular and attractive through the use of posters. (See "Poster Making," Philippine Public Schools, November, 1929.)
- f. Let pupils prepare and edit a school newspaper in which health items are one feature.
- g. Let pupils give three-minute speeches on various health habits. AS a stimulus let the best ones give their talks in other rooms to interest the little children.
- h. Emphasize the importance of the example of older pupils for young children.
- i. Let the pupils dramatize original health stories and encourage play writing.
- j. Suggestive subjects for debate or speeches:

(1) Good health is a better asset to an adult than money or influence

(2) A child born weak but properly cared for makes a stronger adult than one born strong but not properly cared for

(3) The boy who uses tobacco or alcohol lessens his chance for success in business

(4) Baseball is better exercise than basketball

(5) It is more important to know the laws of health now than it was a hundred years ago

(6) It is more important for girls to be healthy than boys

(7) A boy living in the provinces has a better chance for long life than one living in Manila

(8) Athletics is as important for girls as for boys

- k. Point out health lessons in history, geography, or reading whenever opportunity presents.

4. Standards of attainment - Habits to be established by the end of grade seven

- a. The regular practice of all habits listed under Grade VI.

- b. Health knowledge of the following:

(1) What cleanliness really is.

(2) Why cleanliness prevents tooth decay

(3) The relation of foods to tooth decay

(4) The principles of body structure and how the body keeps in working order

(5) The work of the digestive tract and facts of internal cleanliness
